Freidman is a niche facilities service provider that understands that our clients each have unique requirements that require us to deliver service in a way that is unique to them and that a one size fits all model does not always provide value to the client.

We offer our clients a full range of carefully thought out, bespoke services that meet the exacting needs of large and small, privately owned and public-sector businesses across the UK.

A flexible model allows our clients to determine what services they need from our portfolio, confident in the knowledge that they are backed by an engaged partner that has the capability to react, flex and support them as their requirements change.

Freidman have the skill, capability and capacity to support our clients across all of their requirements, whether through an individual service line or through to a fully managed service delivery model, knowing that they are working with an expert and capable partner that understands how to drive value for our clients. The following is an overview of the solutions that Freidman is able to provide to its clients all managed through our 24/7 365 manned service centre:

Freidman has vast experience in providing facilities management solutions for clients across public and private sectors. We understand that your business is unique and that the expected requirements for a Service Partner across different operating environments vary dramatically. From commercial offices to healthcare, government estates to manufacturing facilities, we'll design a service solution that fits your organisation perfectly.
